

SOTC COVID-19 (CORONAVIRUS) OPERATIONS STATUS
UPDATED 3/25/20

SOTC Stakeholders and Supporters:

We are all navigating uncharted territory related to the COVID-19 threat facing our stakeholder groups which include employers and SOTC's partner colleges and universities. Our thoughts continue to be with all of our partners as we face these challenging times together. Please continue reading for the latest information as it relates to the SOTC 2020 program.

At this time SOTC has no plans to stop the internship posting/application process. Our board met by phone on March 18th and remains optimistic and committed to offering our internship program this summer. In the meantime, we have created contingency planning committees to prepare for scenarios that may not allow for a full/traditional program. Our plan is to assess facts ones again in April and see if there are any indicators that this threat will pass by summer or not. We will continue to be in regular communication with all stakeholders, including students and employers as we navigate through this together. Updates will also be posted to the same link on our website that you used to get to this document.

In addition to ongoing contingency planning here is what is happening now:

- We are expecting our employers and students to continue participation in the application/review process as if the program will start on-time in June.
- Hiring will continue with nearly 15 positions filled so far and approximately 70 available.
- New employers may still post positions through April
- Students may still seek support from their school's Career Services team virtually
